

Lexus to Unveil the All-new LS 500h at the 2017 Geneva Motor Show

February 14, 2017

Image not found or type unknown

GENEVA (February 14, 2017) — Following the world premiere of the LS 500 featuring a twin-turbo 3.5-liter V6 gas engine at this year's Detroit Auto Show, Lexus will introduce the all-new LS 500h at the upcoming Geneva Motor Show.

The 2017 RC F GT3 racing car will also be presented for the first time in Europe, showcasing the brand's growing engagement in motorsports. Other Lexus models on display will include the LC, the RC, the RC F and the RX and NX ranges.

The Lexus press conference will take place on March 7, at 12:45 p.m. CET on stand 4211 in Hall 4, Palexpo.