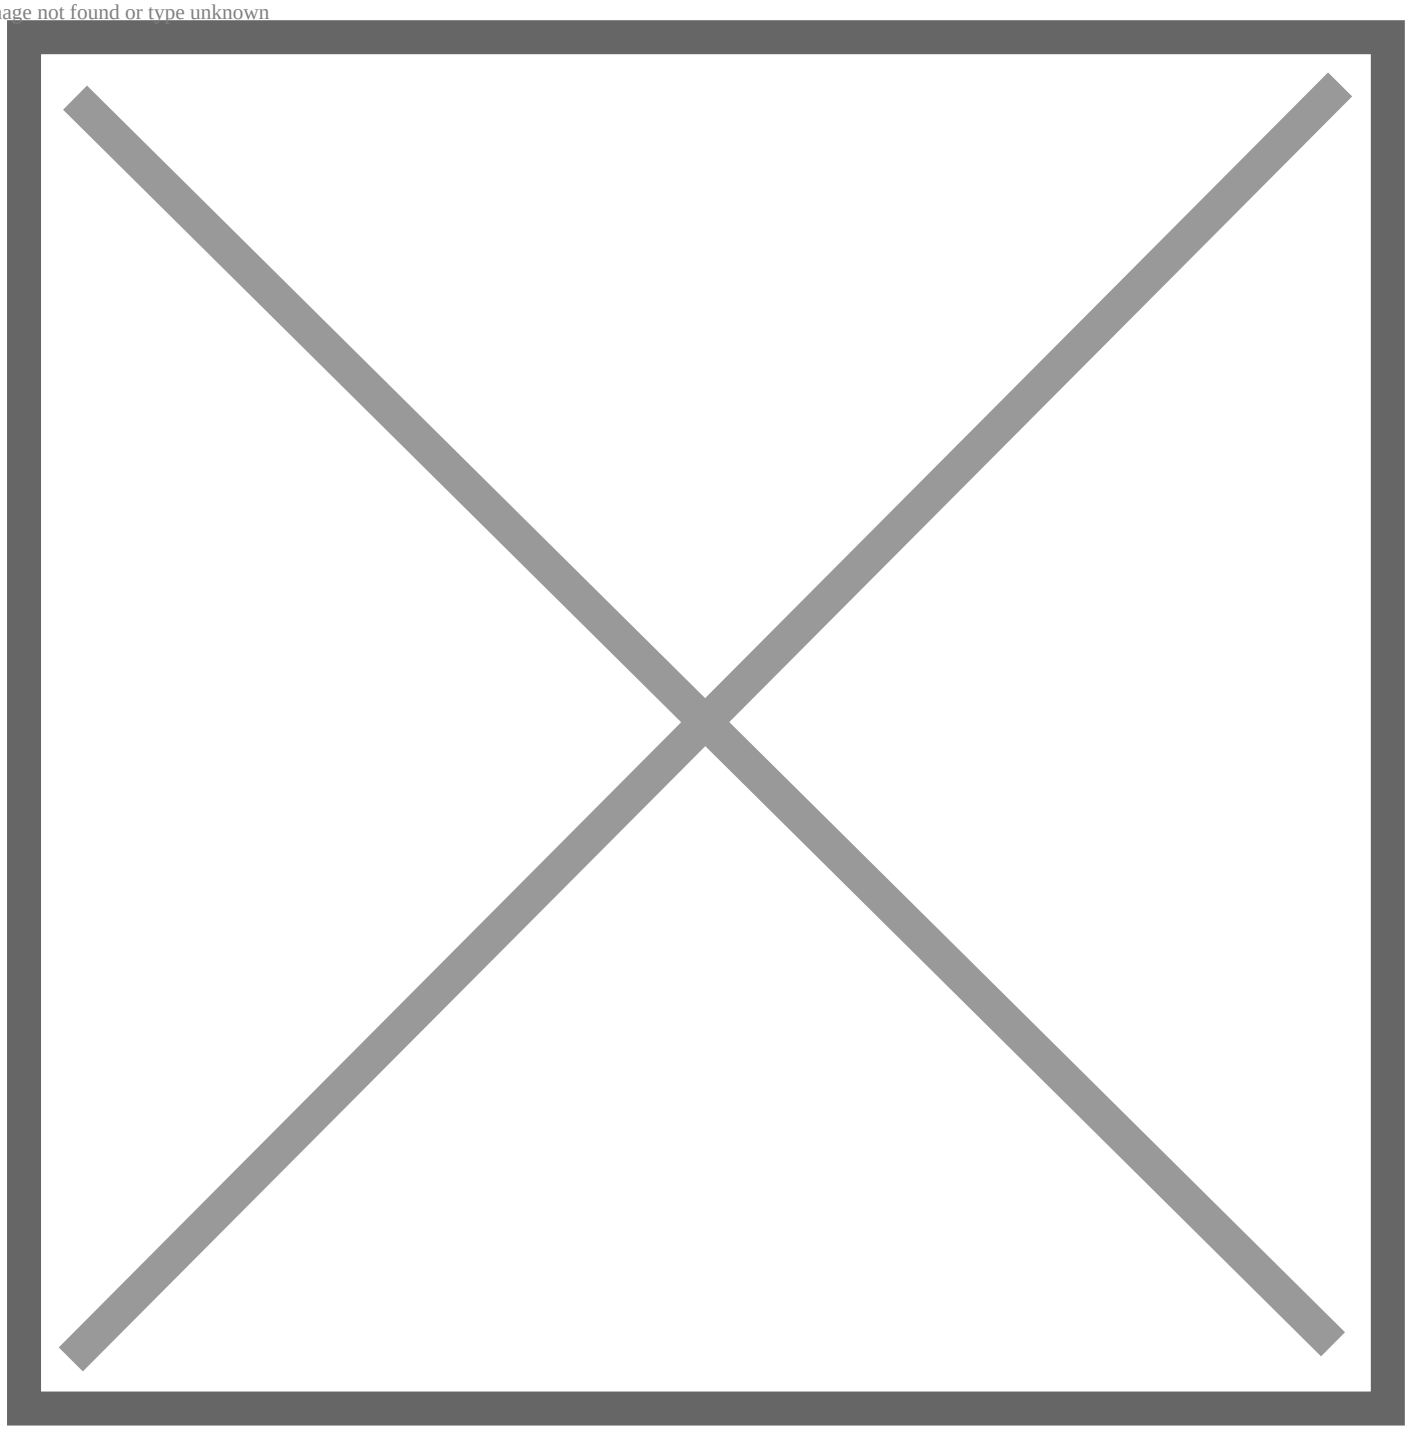
Building Lexus: A Sensory Story

April 11, 2016

Image not found or type unknown



With thousands of nerve endings per square centimeter, the human hand is a remarkable tool, even in a facility with the most advanced car-building technology in the world. To further touch on this notion, watch Lexus Takumi training ideology in action.